Cyberbullying scenarios

media4all

This is a story between the daughter and father who were playing on their daughters' computer.

✳ Dad notices the notification, it's a facebook post.
Dad asks: - "Isn't this a picture of your friend? She looks sad.

✳ Yeah... the boys have been taking pictures of her and calling her names all the time.

- "It was a girl from my class, she is very mean to her" - replied the girl.

✳ You have to take responsibility for your actions on the internet and act according to the way you wish to be treated. And that means giving support to people you see who need help. Maybe you're not the only one who thinks like this, and if one of you supports this girl then maybe more will follow.

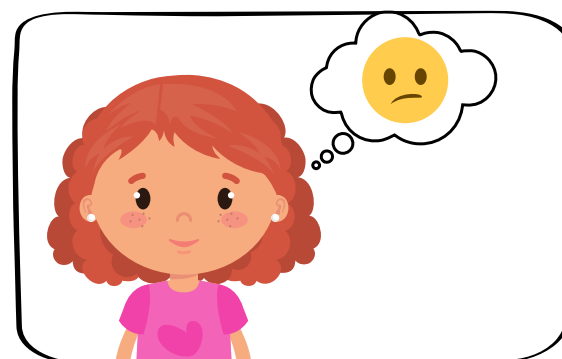

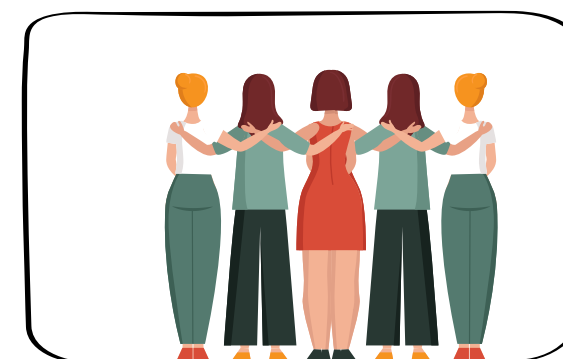

✳ "Digital citizen...What is that?"- asked the girl.

✳ "We let you create online accounts but you need to use them with responsibility. Just as we teach you to be a good person in the real world you also need to be a good person in the digital world, it's called digital citizen!"- said the father.

✳ "And what did you do to help your friend?" - Asked her father.
"Me? nothing... I only see the posts on the internet."- Said the girl

✳ ok ok ok... I didn't think it was that bad. After all she got off social media so she didn't see the silly things they do anymore. But you're right, that's not a solution. And to be honest I didn't know how I could help....

✳ Of course there is!
And I hope you'll talk to me whenever you hear anything like that. There's always something to be done if people care and work together!
